These car regulations apply to employees of Digital Power B.V., with whom it has been agreed in writing that they are eligible for a lease car. With each employee a loan agreement is concluded for the lease car made available to them, signed by employee and Digital Power B.V.. The car regulations form an indissoluble whole with the loan agreement.

Digital Power B.V. reserves the right to modify these regulations without prior consultation. In all cases not covered by these regulations, the management of Digital Power B.V. will decide.

1. Definitions

In these car regulations, the following definitions shall apply:

Digital Power
The private company Digital Power B.V., trading as Digital Power.

The lease company
Relevant company with which the lease contract was entered into.

Business kilometers
The kilometers you travel to a client or a potential client.

Executive Board
René de Boer, appointed as a director according to Digital Power's bylaws.

2. Conditions of use of lease car

Awarding criteria

Management determines whether you are eligible for a lease car and for what duration and under what conditions. To be eligible for a lease car, you must hold a driving license valid in the Netherlands.

Lease car loan agreement

Each time a lease car is made available, a loan agreement will be entered into with you. The car regulations apply not only to the provided lease car, but also, where applicable, to all other (rental/replacement) cars provided by Digital Power.

Allocation of used lease cars

Digital Power can, where appropriate, assign you a used lease car, which has not yet reached the end date of the lease contract.

Interim change drivers

The moment you have an assignment and are on secondment, your Business Manager will assess whether you are given the opportunity to use a lease car. The moment you do not carry out an assignment with a client, Digital Power is authorized to use the lease car for other purposes.

Given that the cars are leased, it may make sense for business reasons to swap lease cars and drivers so that there is an optimal mix of the final mileage to be driven with the lease cars and the duration of the lease contract. You should cooperate in this swap.

Period of use

Digital Power reserves the right to extend or shorten the period of use of the lease car for business reasons. The final lease contract between Digital Power and the leasing company will be based on the actual expected annual kilometers.

Winter tyres standard

In the interest of your safety and for the occupants, Digital Power has decided to participate in the leasing company's winter tyre plan. You must strictly follow the instructions given for participation in the winter tyre plan. These include:

- Replacement of all tyres at designated tyre supplier
- Changing winter tyres to summer tyres and vice versa in a timely manner

Telephone preconfiguration

In the interests of safety, Digital Power recommends not talking on the phone while driving. If you do phone, it should be hands-free.

Registration

Lease cars are put in the name of the leasing company. The vehicle registration certificate part III, also called the transfer certificate, remains in the possession of the lease company.

3. Fuel

Introduction

You are not free to choose the fuel type. Digital Power determines on an individual car level which fuel type is most economically optimal.

It is very important to fill up with the right fuel. If the actual fuel costs differ more than 20% from the standard used by the leasing company, the additional costs will be passed on to you.

Fuel card usage

The fuel card and PIN code provided are means of payment for fuel, oil and lubricants and windscreen fluid in the Netherlands. They therefore represent money. The fuel card and PIN code should therefore be kept separately and used in accordance with the supplier's instructions. The risk of loss and theft or the costs and damage arising from misuse of the fuel card issued to you will be borne by you.

Products other than fuel, oil and lubricants and windscreen fluid may not be purchased using the fuel card. Nor is it permitted to pay for fuel and/or lubricants for a car other than the lease car provided to you by Digital Power.

Fuel payment in advance

It may happen that you have had to pay for fuel costs using a different method than the fuel card provided to you. You can claim the fuel costs you have advanced through Digital Power's payroll system. For more information on claiming, see chapter 6 of the Digital Talent Handbook.

Refuelling and entering kilometrage

When refueling the lease car, it is mandatory to also enter the correct kilometrage after entering the pin code.

Procedure in case of damage or loss

If the fuel card is lost or stolen, you must notify the leasing company immediately by telephone and confirm this in writing or by e-mail within 48 hours. It is extremely important that the fuel card is blocked as soon as possible. Costs and damage resulting from not following this procedure or misuse of the fuel card will be at your own expense.

Fuel consumption and costs

A large part of operating costs consists of fuel costs. Therefore, it is important to drive the lease car as efficiently as possible, keep the tyres properly inflated and avoid filling up along the motorway. Special types of fuel, which are more expensive than the normally suitable fuel for the lease car, should also be avoided. Consumption should remain within the established standards. Digital Power is entitled to pass on costs caused by unnecessarily high fuel consumption or filling up with the wrong type of fuel.

4. Use of the lease car

General use

You are obliged to use the lease car competently and carefully in accordance with government regulations and the given use and maintenance instructions. In addition to the obligations listed below, you are also required to keep the lease car in good condition, both internally and externally, and to have it repaired if necessary. These obligations include:

- When refilling the crankcase on an interim basis, oil should be used in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions
- The minor and major servicing must be carried out in accordance with the service booklet and the booklet must be completed and signed
- Engine oil, coolant and battery fluid levels and tyre pressure should be checked regularly. Tyres should also be renewed on time. The employee is responsible for maintaining the necessary fluid levels
- Accessories may only be fitted by an officially authorized dealer or by an authorized fitter after permission from the lease company and are at your own expense. Damage resulting from the fitting of accessories without the permission of the lease company will be recovered from your
- Accessories included in the lease price may never be removed
- No smoking in the lease car

Damage as a result of negligence in any of the above obligations, and in general as a result of injudicious handling, lack of care and negligence, shall be borne by the employee. You, by commissioning a lease car and signing the loan agreement, consent to set-off against the salary due to you. No set-off will be made before obtaining a written report from an expert showing such negligence.

Seizures and measures by third parties

If the lease car is seized and in general if third parties take measures against the lease car, or it becomes or threatens to become out of your possession, you are obliged to notify Digital Power immediately and in any case within 24 hours, without prejudice to the obligation to make provisions yourself.

Driving disqualification

You must notify Digital Power immediately if your driving license, whether temporary or otherwise, has been denied to you.

Loss of registration certificate

You must inform the leasing company immediately if there is a loss of one or more parts of the registration certificate. You must at all times follow the instructions to be given by the lease company for having the damage repaired.

Private use

You will strictly follow the instructions to be given by Digital Power or the leasing company. The use of the lease car for speed driving, performance driving or teaching purposes is not permitted. Furthermore, it is expressly forbidden to alienate, pawn, pledge, rent out, sublet or transport persons and/or goods for payment the lease car.

Drivers

It is permitted to have the lease car driven by live-in family members or colleagues provided these persons hold a valid Dutch driving license. A partner with whom a lasting relationship has been established is equated to a live-in family member. Drivers other than the aforementioned may only drive the lease car with Digital Power's express permission. Regardless of who drives the lease car, you remain responsible to Digital Power for the use of the lease car.

5. Own contributions

Contribution for private use of lease car

You owe Digital Power a personal contribution for the private use of the lease car (see the exact amounts per category in the Mobility Plan), provided this is within reasonable limits. Digital Power understands reasonable private use to mean 15,000 kilometers per year excluding commuting kilometers. If private use exceeds 15,000 kilometers per year, the additional kilometers will be charged to you as a contribution for private use at €0.21 net per kilometer. The amount will be deducted from your salary.

Fixed additional own contribution

If you exceed the allocated lease amount, the excess will be deducted from your salary each month as a net fixed additional own contribution. You will also owe VAT on this. This fixed own contribution may at the same time be deducted from your additional taxable benefit, so that you ultimately pay less net. Exceeding the lease amount is only permitted with the express permission of the management.

If your employment contract with Digital Power ends, regardless of the manner in which the termination comes about, resulting in the premature termination/return of your lease car, you will be obliged to compensate Digital Power for the damage suffered in accordance with the applicable penalty clause of the leasing company for the premature termination of the lease contract. This means at least, but not exclusively, that your fixed own contribution for the remaining term of the lease contract will be deducted from your salary or if necessary recovered otherwise. If you join another employer, the new employer may take over the lease contract from Digital Power, if Digital Power and the leasing company agree.

Reduction of contract hours and own contribution

If you start working less during the term of the lease contract, an additional monthly personal contribution for private use will apply from the effective date of the changed part-time employment. After the end of the lease term, your eligibility for a lease car will be reassessed. This may exclude new lease participation after the end of the lease term.

6. Arrangements if temporarily no work is done

Sickness/incapacity for work

Unless Digital Power decides otherwise, you must make the lease car available to Digital Power after more than 2 months of sickness/incapacity. This way, Digital Power has the possibility to use the lease car somewhere else within the organization. At the end of the period of illness/incapacity, Digital Power will return the relevant lease car to you without delay.

Paid leave

In the case of leave involving continued payment of your salary, for example short-term care leave, adoption leave or maternity leave, you may continue to drive the lease car during a leave period shorter than 3 months and, in the case of pregnancy, a maximum of the statutory period. The own contributions (where applicable) remain in force during the leave period. If the period is longer than 3 months, you must make the lease car available to Digital Power. If you do not use the lease car privately, the lease car will be returned by mutual agreement.

Unpaid leave

For unpaid leave that involves 0 fte/0 hours of work and continues for more than one month, the lease car will be surrendered to Digital Power from day 1 of the leave.

In the event of unpaid leave that will result in hours of less than 0.8 fte/32 hours, Digital Power will agree with you on the return of the lease car as well as the settlement of any expenses.

7. Maintenance and repair

Obligations

All costs for maintenance of the lease car shall be borne by Digital Power or the lease company, as appropriate, with the exception of repairs whose cause is due to negligence or improper use by you as an employee. As employee, you are at all times responsible for the maintenance of the lease car. You are obliged:

- Enable the leasing company to monitor the condition of the leased car
- Having the prescribed periodic maintenance carried out on time
- Have any repairs carried out in a timely manner, thus avoiding major damage and/or repairs
- Using the leased car as befits a good family person
- Check and maintain the engine oil, battery, brake and coolant levels and tyre pressure weekly and/or at least every 1,000 kilometres

Checks and maintenance

To ensure the proper functioning of the lease car and prevent any damage, it is important that you carry out timely interim checks and make appointments for servicing, in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions. With regard to checks, think about:

- Checking the engine oil regularly and topping it up if necessary
- Checking tyre pressure in connection with tyre wear and fuel consumption
- Offering the lease car in time for the General Periodic Inspection (GPI)
- Getting tyres renewed on time. Contact the leasing company for this

You must contact the leasing company for maintenance and repair of the lease car at all times before having the work carried out.

Tyres

For the safety of the driver and passengers, it is advisable to regularly check the profile of the tyres. If in doubt, contact the leasing company.

Maintenance and repairs abroad

For maintenance and repairs abroad, you should contact the leasing company in advance and follow the instructions. The leasing company will then ensure the correct settlement of the costs incurred. Costs not reimbursed by the lease company are at your own expense.

Permanent replacement

The lease company is at all times entitled, for the remainder of the lease contract, to deploy a replacement car if the cost of repair is so high that the continued operation of the lease car is no longer justified.

Replacement transportation

In the event of repairs to the lease car in the Netherlands, which according to the repairer's statement cannot be carried out within 24 hours, you may have a replacement car at your disposal during the time the lease car cannot be at your disposal. The request is submitted to the lease company. The lease company determines the make and type of the replacement car. As soon as the lease car can be made available to you again after repair, the replacement car must be returned and signed out. A pick-up and return service applies for the first 24 hours.

For repairs abroad, a replacement car will be provided if it turns out that the repair cannot be carried out within 48 hours. This is arranged via the leasing company's emergency center.

If you retain possession of the replacement car provided for longer than necessary, the resulting costs, such as rental costs, will be at your own expense. You will arrange servicing of the lease car in such a way that no replacement car is required. You will organize transport to work and the garage on your own initiative and at your own expense without unnecessary loss of time. Digital Power is entitled to pass on the cost of replacement transport to you in the event of excessive or unjustified use.

8. Insurance and damages

Introduction

In any case, the lease car is WA + Casco insured. If it is a new car, the lease car is all-risk insured. There is also passenger accident insurance and legal assistance insurance. The insurance does not cover the following cases, among others:

- If the driver was under such influence of alcoholic beverages or any intoxicant that driving the insured object would have been prohibited to the driver by law or authority
- Damage caused by intent, fault or recklessness
- Damage incurred in competitions involving the speed element
- For further exclusions, see the policy terms and conditions of the leasing company, which are available from the leasing company on request

9. Damage report

In case of damage, action should be taken as follows:

- If bodily injury has been caused in a claim and/or third parties are involved, you are obliged to ensure that an official report has been drawn up by an authorized public body or that such measures as mentioned in the terms and conditions of insurance have been taken that the insurer cannot refuse payment of the claims on this basis
- Together with the other party, if they are involved in a claim, you fill in the claim form in full and make sure it is fully signed. You then send the claim form to the leasing company within 48 hours.
- You report the damage immediately (no later than 48 hours) by telephone to the leasing company
- If a damage was caused by an unidentified motor vehicle (or trailer attached to it) or uninsured motor vehicle, you must follow the instructions given by the Guarantee Fund so that a payment cannot be refused
- Furthermore, you must immediately forward all letters, documents and notices received for this purpose to the lease company. If, after repeated requests, you fail to send in the claim forms and therefore no recovery is possible, the damage will be charged to Digital Power by the insurance company. These costs will be recovered from you in full.

Theft

If the lease car is stolen, you should immediately report the theft to the police. Then report the theft to the lease company. The lease company will then help you with replacement transport. If the lease car is stolen abroad, you must report it to the local police on the spot and also on your return to the Netherlands. The theft will then be registered with the Vehicle Crime Insurance Bureau. Valuables such as mobile phone, laptop, registration certificate, etc. are not insured if left unattended in a lease car. If the insurer does not reimburse the damage as a result, you are responsible for these costs and they will be recovered from you in full.

Damage repair

The lease company works with a number of selected damage companies and will ask you to have the damage repaired at one of them. For the duration of the damage repair, the lease company will provide a replacement car if Digital Power has made arrangements with the lease company to this effect. In the event of glass and/or windscreen damage, the lease company will ensure prompt repair or replacement. Depending on whether it is a headlight or glass damage, you will be referred to a dealer or one of the glass specialists the lease company works with.

10. Employee costs

Own risk

If an excess is charged by the leasing company, for whatever reason, these costs will be passed on to you as an employee at all times. The excess will be deducted from your salary. A personal contribution in the event of damage will also be deducted from the additional taxable benefit on your pay slip up to a maximum of the amount of the additional taxable benefit, in accordance with article 21.3.7 of the Tax and Customs Administration's Payroll Tax Manual, except if you do not have an additional taxable benefit due to a statement of no private use of car.

Here are some examples of excesses:

- For hull damage (all damage to the vehicle itself), you pay an excess per event of €150 net
- In case of total loss of the lease car as a result of theft or damage, you pay an excess of € 300 net per occurrence
- For windscreen and/or tyre replacement, you pay an excess of €75 net per occurrence
- For replacement of a side window, you pay an excess of €150 net per occurrence
- No excess applies to windscreen repair

Any damage to the lease car or loss or theft must be reported immediately to the lease company and confirmed in writing by means of a European claim form. If this is not done, all resulting costs will be at your own expense.

An excess amount applies to any damage whose costs cannot be recovered from a third party. The excess provisions make no distinction between damage sustained during business or private use of the lease car. Damages with replacement cars count in full.

Tickets/traffic fines

For municipal offences, Digital Power recommends paying the fine immediately, as the leasing company cannot forward these fines to you due to the short payment period. If possible, the leasing company will forward a fine directly to you. In case you fail to pay the fine on time, the leasing company will pay the reminder, including the increase and pass it on to Digital Power. This is to prevent further cost increases. Digital Power will deduct all recharged costs, plus administration costs of the lease company and Digital Power's administration costs of €10 net, from your net salary. Fines and/or violations made with a rental car will be advanced by the rental company and then also deducted from your net salary.

Tax implications

The tax consequences associated with the use of the lease car, which you have to deal with as a private person, are for your own account. Recourse against Digital Power is excluded.

Additional tax on salary

The tax consequences, resulting from having a business car at one's disposal privately, are entirely for one's own account and are called the additional taxable benefit. The addition is the legally applicable percentage of the fiscal value (or catalogue value) of the car made available, including BPM and VAT. Digital Power is obliged to include the private use (in the form of the additional taxable benefit) of a company car in your payroll.
If you drive less than 500 kilometers privately per calendar year, an employer does not have to add an amount to your salary. For this, you need a 'statement no private car use' from the Tax Administration and you must be able to prove that you do not use the car privately. You do this partly by keeping a comprehensive trip registration form.

If the taxable addition after delivery of the lease car is different from what you could have foreseen when you ordered it, you cannot recover the extra costs from Digital Power or the lease company if the lease car cannot be cancelled without costs.

Statement no private car use

If you are not going to drive more than 500 private kilometres with Digital Power's lease car on a calendar year basis, you can use a form from the tax authorities to declare that you are not using the lease car privately. You then apply for the 'statement no private use of car' form using your DigiD.

Once you have received the 'statement no private use of car', give a copy to Digital Power. Digital Power must omit the addition to income from that moment. Digital Power will not retroactively omit the addition to income for pay periods for which you have already received your salary.

If you are in possession of a 'statement no private car use' from the Tax Administration, you must keep a comprehensive trip registration in accordance with the Tax Administration's guidelines.

The statement is valid indefinitely. If the situation does not change, you do not have to do anything. If the situation does change, you must report this change. A change could be: reporting a (new) registration number, no longer having a lease car, having the statement withdrawn or driving more than 500 private kilometres. You can report a change by means of a change form which can be found on the website of the Tax and Customs Administration. You must send a copy to Digital Power's administration.

If it turns out that you have nevertheless driven more than 500 kilometres per year privately or you cannot submit a record of your trip and the Tax and Customs Administration imposes an additional tax and fine as a result, you will be responsible for all costs and resulting consequences for Digital Power. Regardless of whether you are still employed by Digital Power.

You agree that Digital Power, during the right of use of the lease car, for the purpose of payroll administration, uses the fiscal value of the car made available and does not change this value in the interim. Not even if you are provided with a temporary (less than 30 days) replacement car, the fiscal value of which is lower than the lease car provided.

It is not possible to change from no private use to private use of the provided lease car within one calendar year. This is only possible when changing employer and not client. If you do switch, the tax authorities may impose an additional assessment and fine. You are responsible for all costs and resulting consequences for Digital Power, regardless of whether you are still employed by Digital Power.

On the website of the tax authorities, you will find more information about the no private car use declaration. Read this information carefully.

Abroad

The lease car is covered both inside and outside the Netherlands with regard to breakdowns, accidents, etc. by the lease company's assistance service (coverage is the same as an ANWB membership including breakdown assistance and travel and credit letter).
Fuel costs during private travel abroad are at your own expense.

The lease car is only allowed to visit countries covered by the insurer's policy conditions and listed on the green card. All costs incurred for private trips abroad, such as repair, replacement car, towing, hotel and accommodation costs, etc., are at your own expense insofar as these costs are not reimbursed by the insurer.

Additional chargebacks

In addition to the own contributions and recharges mentioned in these regulations, at least, but not exclusively, the following costs shall be for own account:

- Cost of/for parking
- Storage costs
- Cost of/for bridge, ferry, ferry, boat, tunnel, toll, mountain pass, motorway, road pricing and similar charges
- Demonstrable improper use or improper maintenance or omission of necessary periodic and daily maintenance (such as checking oil level, brake fluid and battery fluid) for which Digital Power is held liable, will be recovered from you.
- Damage due to the use of the lease car under the influence of alcoholic beverages, narcotics or medicines, which are not covered by the insurer
- If as a result of a traffic violation or crime by you, the lease car is seized, the costs arising from the seizure as well as the damage Digital Power suffers as a result will be for your account
- You may claim expenses incurred for business purposes in the designated manner, provided that you do not receive any reimbursement in which these expenses are deemed to be included
- Cleaning costs, such as the costs for internal and external cleaning (car wash) of the lease car are at your own expense
- The costs resulting from loss of or damage to documents, (tank) passes, (spare) car keys, codes and other accessories belonging to the lease car
- Cost of improper return of the lease car
- If upon return of the lease car, damage is found that was not previously reported to the leasing company, any costs charged to Digital Power by the leasing company for this will be passed on to you
- Fines for traffic violations and tickets
- Fines and towing costs resulting from traffic violations as well as fines relating to the MOT, are at your own expense. Amounts paid by the lease company to avoid criminal and/or administrative prosecution are also for its own account
- If forfeiture of the lease car is ordered by the court, the resulting costs and damages charged to Digital Power will be borne by you

All costs charged to you in accordance with these regulations will be deducted from your net salary to the extent permitted by law. If no net salary is paid, you are obliged to pay these costs to Digital Power at first request.

11. Termination of right of use and collection of lease car

Period of use

The general guideline for the duration of a lease car is the duration of the assignment on which you are posted.

Digital Power reserves the right to extend or possibly reduce the term (up to a maximum of 60 months) and/or the kilometrage, if it considers it desirable for economic reasons.

Other assignment or early retirement

In the event of transfer to another assignment that does not require a lease car or in the event of early termination of employment, regardless of how, Digital Power reserves the right to reclaim the lease car and use it for other purposes.

Termination and suspension of the loan agreement

You are no longer eligible for a lease car:

- At the time the employment contract between you and Digital Power is terminated or dissolved
- If you fail to fulfil your obligations under the loan agreement and thereby the car regulations on time or properly, at Digital Power's discretion
- If you are no longer eligible for a lease car due to a job change
- If your driving licence is revoked for a period longer than 30 days
- If you are ill/unable to work and this lasts longer than 2 months
- If you have been made inactive or suspended
- For paid leave longer than 3 months
- In case of granted unpaid leave
- If there is the use of alcohol, narcotics, the use of drugs or any other substance that affects your ability to drive and you still participated in traffic as a driver
- If you are absent for long periods (e.g. due to posting abroad)
- For other weighty reasons at the discretion of Digital Power's management

On termination of the loan agreement, you are obliged to return the lease car to Digital Power immediately, without damage, clean and tidy. If damage is found, a claim notification must still be submitted to the insurer. If Digital Power incurs costs for cleaning, these will be recovered from you. You lend your cooperation to this. On termination of the loan agreement you are obliged to hand in all accompanying documents, such as registration certificate/card (part 1A and part 1B), (spare) key(s), fuel card, TomTom and maintenance booklet. Upon return, if documents are missing or damage is found which has been caused by incorrect dismantling of the accessories fitted, you will be charged for the costs and depreciation in value of the lease car, plus any expert assessment costs.

Returning the lease car

At the end of the right of use or upon expiry of the lease contract, you must hand in the lease car clean (inside and outside) and damage-free, including all accompanying items, such as the vehicle registration certificate/card (part 1A and 1B), the (spare) key(s), fuel card, any TomTom and maintenance booklet.

You should check before handing in the lease car that it is damage-free or that any damage has been reported to the lease company. What the lease company understands by damage and what constitutes use damage that does not need to be reported is described on the website of the lease company. If Digital Power is charged costs related to unreported damage, missing items or the condition of the lease car, these costs will be passed on to you. If, at the discretion of the lease company, it turns out upon (interim) return of the lease car that it is necessary to have the lease car professionally cleaned (by means of, for example, an ozone treatment to remove the smell of smoke), the resulting costs will be for your account. Even if you are no longer employed.

12. Final provisions

Commuting expenses

If you have been provided with a lease car, public transport (OV) expenses and mileage claims will not be reimbursed.

Reservation/withholding from salary

Digital Power reserves the right to reserve an amount from your last payout on termination of your employment for any recoverable damages or fines and penalties. The amount of the reserve will not exceed € 300,-.

Agreed regulations

By signing the loan agreement, you declare to have taken note of these car regulations and agree to the contents.

These regulations were adopted on 1 January 2017 by the management of Digital Power.
